RE: September 2021 – EYFS Reforms - Observations, Assessment and Planning

Dear Parents and Carers,

From September 2021, the Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) is changing. As part of these changes, we will be making some adjustments to the way we observe, assess and plan for your children.

What is the EYFS?

The EYFS is the statutory Early Years curriculum. This is mandatory for all schools, settings and childminders to follow from birth up to the end of reception. The EYFS sets out our legal obligations regarding things like adult: child ratios, suitable people, safeguarding and welfare, staff qualifications, and learning and development.

What's changing?

- Most of the changes are regarding Learning and Development, with some minor adjustments to Safeguarding and Welfare.
- Fundamentally, what we teach children is very similar, albeit worded differently.
- The new framework also specifically talks about the pressures of Early Years staff and wants to remove unnecessary paperwork requirements which result in time spent away from the children. It says the following:
“Assessment should not entail prolonged breaks from interaction with children, nor require excessive paperwork. When assessing whether an individual child is at the expected level of development, practitioners should draw on their knowledge of the child and their own expert professional judgement and should not be required to prove this through collection of physical evidence.” – EYFS 2021

Changes to Safeguarding and Welfare

- The changes to Safeguarding and Welfare are largely wording based. For example “Local Safeguarding Children’s Board” has been changed to “Local Safeguarding Partners” to reflect some recent change in structure.
- A requirement for promoting the good oral health of children has been added.
- A specific requirement for promoting staff and children’s online safety has been added. This reflects the technological advances we have made since the EYFS was last reformed in 2012.

Changes to Learning and Development – Educational Programmes

- The Educational Programmes lead up to the Early Learning Goals – a description of what we want children to know by the end of Reception.
- These are divided in to 7 areas of learning. The ‘Prime’ areas form the basis for all learning, and the ‘Specific’ areas build on those skills and broaden children’s understanding, experiences and knowledge. In playgroup, we always focus on the Prime areas in the first instance as they really do form the foundation for everything else.

· The 7 areas are divided down in to ‘aspects’ (like subheadings).

Personal, Social, Emotional Development · Self Regulation · Managing Self · Building Relationships

Communication and Language · Listening, Attention and Understanding ·

Physical Development · Gross Motor Skills · Fine Motor Skills

Please be aware that these headings are those of the Early Learning Goals for the end of Reception. In playgroup, we focus on learning the early skills that set children up to achieve these. For example, we build our gross and fine motor skills, mark making, excitement for learning, conversation skill, interest in books and print, strong sense of self and so on which eventually lead to mastery of reading, writing and all of the other fantastic things your child will learn as they grow and develop. All of the learning we do here, and most of the learning in reception is through quality, active play. “Teaching in the early years should not be taken to imply a “top down” or formal way of working. It is a broad term that covers the many different ways in which adults help young children learn. It includes their interactions with children during planned and child-initiated play and activities. communicating and modelling language, showing, explaining, demonstrating, exploring ideas, encouraging, questioning, recalling, providing a narrative for what they are doing, facilitating and setting challenges”- Ofsted.

What does all of this mean at First Steps

“Assessment should not entail prolonged breaks from interaction with children, nor require excessive paperwork. When assessing whether an individual child is at the expected level of development, practitioners should draw on their knowledge of the child and their own expert professional judgement and should not be required to prove this through collection of physical evidence.” – EYFS 2021

These changes and the removal of the requirement for a lot of evidence based tracking means that we are making some adjustments to the way we observe, assess and plan at Playgroup

The team here work hard to ensure they know your children extremely well, we observe their play, development and interests, we assess what they know and what we want them to learn and then we plan activities and provision which will extend their development and teach them something new or help to bed in the skill they are already mastering. All of these things are done by using our understanding of child development and our knowledge of your child as an individual person.

We have produced written observations which are sent to you through Tapestry or paper copies and are designed to help us 'track' the children's learning and development. These observations are lengthy, time consuming and require staff to spend lots of time away from doing what they do best every day. Up until now it has been a requirement for us to produce evidence based tracking. Now this requirement has been removed, we have decided to use our Practitioners' time more effectively. We will not be using Tapestry anymore as it is an additional cost we don't need any more.

We still want to keep parents up to date with their children's learning and development, and give you snapshots of their time at Playgroup, so we plan to offer the following from the Autumn Term.

We will still offer a parents evening both informal and formal over the year. We will have termly conversations either face to face or over the phone. We will share with you a summary of their achievements and what's next each term with a few photos in a scrap book along the way.

This will tell you what we have been learning, what we've been enjoying, talk about their wellbeing and whether their development is as expected or if there is anything we need to work on. There are a number of non statutory guidance documents to help with this, we will be using Developments Matters and may use additional documents if they are of benefit to your child, such as if they have additional needs or are learning English as an additional language.

We will continue to complete the 2 Year Progress Check. This is a statutory progress check to be completed between 24 and 35 months.

We will ask you to complete an 'All About Me' and 'I can do' form on entry and each term a 'knowing me knowing you' form which will allow fully up to date information about your child's needs and interests as they change over time.

When your child goes to school, we will continue to produce a Transition Documents to support this.
